Nancy Wynne Talks of Miss Carter Who Is Introduced Today—Other Debutantes and Other Plans—She Chats About the Minott-Baird Engagement

VIRGINIA CARTER is to be introduced this afternoon out at her grandmother's home in Chestnut Hill. Virginia is the daughter of the late George and Mrs. Carter, and is the youngest of a most attractive girl. She is the elder of the two sisters, Mary being in the debutante set. Mrs. Benson will have her daughter, Mrs. Carter, receiving with her and her daughters-in-law, Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Benson, Jr., and Mrs. Lawrence Benson. Mrs. Jay Cooke and Mrs. John H. Packard, 32, two other daughters, and Miss Ward, who is Mrs. Benson's sister.

Among the debutantes will be Anne Ashton, Anne Barclay, Lyseth Boyd, Sarah Harringer, Jane Lane, Alice Downs, Charlotte Starr, Augusta Harlow, Mary Lloyd Norris, Jane Hepburn, Henrietta Wilson, Mary Siler, Mary Thayer, Anita Strawbridge, Eloise Warner, Rosemond Starnes, of Laywell, Sewell, Annabella Wood, Rita Hecker, Elizabeth Jones, Mary Law, Nancy McKean, Kitty Knight, Margaret Harrison, Eleanor Gansner, Polly Grice, Betty Frazier, Ruth Packard, Adelaide Jones and several others.

ELAINE SULLIVAN will be a pretty debutante. She is to be introduced some time in January. She is the daughter of the late George and Mrs. Sullivan, of the Woods, Radnor, and the sister of Frances Sullivan and of Livingston Sullivan. Elaine is a little darker than her mother, though she has a little coloring and very large eyes and dark eyelashes. She looks a little like her sister, the late Mrs. Albert Hoffman, though she is a more vivacious type.

The Sullivans have been in the Adirondacks for a short time and only returned recently. Frances is still there, but will be back in a couple of weeks. The family will move into their apartments at the Ritz-Carlton in November. I have not heard as yet whether Elaine will be introduced at a tea or a dance. That will be decided later.

That was a lovely wedding of Emily J. Clothier and Fred Strawbridge, Jr., yesterday. I thought Emily made a charming bride. She looked so sweet and so dainty and so lovely and so pretty. She is only nineteen, you know. I think Doctor Cummins, coming on from Poughkeepsie to marry them, gave an extra touch of romance to the wedding. You know he was Mr. Morris Clothier's roommate at Swarthmore and married Mr. Clothier and Miss Earnshaw, Emily's father and mother, twenty years ago. He is a baptized Emily, who is their eldest child, and he has been one of the family's most devoted friends since he and Mr. Clothier were college mates. The church was perfectly beautiful, the chancel being fairly banked with white flowers and autumn leaves; and Lady Clothier's soft orange frock was a wonderful bit of color against the pure white of the bridal gown as she took Emily's bouquet from her and arranged her veil and train when she turned to walk down the aisle. Another bit I heard about the wedding which seemed very nice was the fact that Dr. Herbert J. Tilly, who played the organ for Mr. and Mrs. Clothier's wedding, also played for this one. It was a together a delightful affair!

GAJINOR BAIRD'S engagement to Joy Minott is interesting, isn't it? You know, Joe is a Princeton man, and has been on his feet quite a lot to various parties so, though he is from Oregon, he is by no means a stranger to this city. I hope Gajinor won't go away over there to live. His family lives in Portland, but he may settle here. I think that I do not know, but I do know that he is engaged to one of the nicest girls in town. Gajinor is a peach. She is a wonderfully capable and level headed and so good looking. She did splendid work in the National League for Women's Service, in which she was one of the leaders during the late war. She came out about three years ago and has been extremely popular with the younger set. She only returned to this city last Saturday with her aunt, Mrs. Henry S. Evans, and her sister Marion and cousin Margaretta and Elizabeth Jones. Her sister Marion is to be married on November 1 to Jared Ingersoll.

The other day Betty broke her best doll and she was greatly distressed about it. She ran in to her mother and said, "Oh, mother; my doll's broke!" "Betty, dear; mother is so sorry," said the ever-sympathetic mother. But a little later, when the hurt was cured, she added, "Don't say 'my doll's broke, dear; say broken.'" "Oh, broken," said Betty in a bored tone.

Next day, however, she remembered the admonition, for when Teddy smashed his kiddie car she ran fast to mother, calling, "Oh, mother! Teddy broken his car."
